

Admin Dashboard

- This is high-level architecture of the system. It is a simple diagram that shows the relationship between the user, server, and relayer.
- The user interacts with the server, which is composed of a frontend and backend.
- The server communicates with the relayer, which is composed of an engine and connection.
- The engine and connection communicate with each other using a Unix domain socket.

